

Times-Tribune Newspaper

February 6 · 🌐

A state of emergency has been declared in Knox County, effective at 11 a.m. Thursday.

THETIMESTRIBUNE.COM

UPDATED: Knox County declares state of emergency due to flooding

A state of emergency has been declared in Knox County, effective at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Times-Tribune Newspaper

February 7 · 🌐

“Turn around, don’t drown” was the advice Knox County Judge Executive Mike Mitchell gave after declaring a state of emergency in Knox County due to flooding.

THETIMESTRIBUNE.COM

Major flooding leads to several road and school closures

“Turn around, don’t drown” was the advice Knox County Judge E...

Times-Tribune Newspaper

February 7 · 🌐

Gov. Andy Beshear has declared a state of emergency in response to flooding in several southeastern counties, including Knox and Whitley counties.

THETIMESTRIBUNE.COM

UPDATED: Gov. Beshear declares state of emergency in Knox and Whitley counties among others

Times-Tribune Newspaper

February 8 · 🌐

The NWS reported the Cumberland River in Williamsburg was at 34.49 feet Saturday morning. It is predicted the river will continue to rise to 34.6 feet by Saturday afternoon. The predicted crest would be the third highest in recorded history.

THETIMESTRIBUNE.COM

UPDATED: Cumberland River continues to rise in Williamsburg, expected to crest Saturday afternoon

Times-Tribune Newspaper

February 8 · 🌐

The NWS reported at 4 p.m. Saturday the Cumberland River in Williamsburg was at 34.83 feet. That's the third highest in recorded history.

THETIMESTRIBUNE.COM

UPDATED: Cumberland River continues to rise in Williamsburg; portion of US 25W closed

Times-Tribune Newspaper

February 9 · 🌐

The NWS said the river crested at 34.8 feet by Saturday evening. The crest is the third highest in recorded history.

THETIMESTRIBUNE.COM

UPDATED: Cumberland River crests in Williamsburg as flooding records set throughout area